PAPER FOR THE GUNS

In a single month Great Britain has collected 100,000 tons of waste paper for munitions. This record quantity was amassed by displaying to the public how British industry turns the dustman's waste paper into ammunition for the guns, chewing it up by hot, revolving knives, converting it into a thick liquid in huge containers which comes out at last in long, clean sheets of cardboard. One used envelope is transformed into a cartridge wad; 12 old letters become a box to hold cartridges; six books a mortar shell container; 24 pounds of waste paper make 448 washers for rifle grenades. Bren guns, Lewis guns, 2-inch mortars, Vickers guns, Tommy guns and ordinary rifles are all now using the results of Britain's record drive.

The Vegreville Observer quotes a typographical error in a former issue of that paper. The item as printed said: Rev. Mr. Gold had frequently dropped into Mr. Deby's home for a quiet "horn." The word should have been "hour." As Mr. Gold was a temperance advocate, the implication was very unfortunate.

A. L. Watkins, formerly of Coleman, has been elected new president of the High River Canadian Legion, succeeding Percy Dougherty. Among resolutions passed unanimously was one asking the federal government to refuse to sell any further lands to Huteties, Doukhobors, and such sects as fail to assume full responsibility in defense of the country in time of war.

GET BUSY ON SALVAGE

The public are asked to deliver their bundles of paper, rubber, etc., at the warehouse at the rear of the R.C.M.P. barracks as soon as possible.

COWLEY HAPPENINGS

Mr. and Mrs. X. C. Kaupp and family visited New Dayton last week end. Charles Evans, of Hillcrest, was a visitor here on Sunday.

Mrs. W. Diamond is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sciotto, at Beaver Mines. Her husband is at present in Ottawa.

William Cochrane is a Calgary visitor this week. Bobby, who was home on a short leave, returned to the city with his father.

Changes in staff at the Cowley airport have been effected recently. Herman Neilson has been transferred to Crescent Valley, B. C., and Messrs. Rosenthal and Perry are newcomers.

Benton Murphy, Mrs. D. Sandeman and sons Eric and Jack, Miss Alice Diamond and Mrs. Bud Wall and infant son were week-end visitors to Calgary.

Miss Nellie McWilliam entertained at bridge at her home in the Christie block on Thursday evening.

The Cowley juniors took a good beating from the Lundbreck squad at Lundbreck on Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Martin and their four children have gone to Mossleigh to spend the Easter week end.

A Nova Scotia member of parliament, in a speech, suggested that members set an example to the people by turning down their glasses for the duration and using less alcohol. Good idea. Now, if they will set the example and demand this country be given forthright leadership with less attention to future ballot boxes, that would be something better. —New Glasgow Free Lance.

Because the Dominion government has decided that there will be no combined campaign this year for the auxiliary war services organizations—Salvation Army War Services, Young Men's Christian Association War Services, Canadian Legion War Services, Knights of Columbus Canadian Army Huts and the Young Women's Christian Association War Services—directors of the Canadian War Services Fund have given the necessary instructions to workers of the organization throughout Canada to discontinue future campaign operations. President Murdoch reports an unexpended balance of $691,140.28 as at February 28, 1942, which figure might be slightly increased by last minute receipts on account of subscriptions pledged in 1941. Disposition of this balance will be decided at a later date. For the objective of $5,500,000 a total of $7,242,585 was subscribed. The directors extend warmest thanks to newspapers and publishers throughout Canada, radio stations, and business and industrial firms who so generously donated special advertising, and others who contributed to the success of the drive by co-operation with the publicity committee.

Exhibition Train Shows Army At Work

Canadians from coast to coast are at last going to find out what a "jeep" is. Poppy had one idea—the Army has another. According to the latest unofficial Army vocabulary the light utility car seen in the centre of the flat car is a "jeep". At left everyone will recognize a Universal Carrier and at right is an eight hundred-weight Personnel Truck. These vehicles form part of a comprehensive exhibition of the Canadian Army and its work now touring the Dominion from coast to coast. It will travel 15,000 miles and visit more than 200 centres from coast to coast. One car is devoted to communications. Set up by the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals, the exhibit shows the channels of communication from units in the field to Divisional Headquarters. These pictures show a hand bag shelter in which a unit wireless station has been set up. At centre is a model of an 8 cvt wireless truck and on the table a wireless set for use in vehicles. Centre is the operator at D. H. 6, beyond him a Signal Sergeant demonstrates a cable-laying machine.

CORRESPONDENCE

House of Commons, Canada, Ottawa, March 26th, 1942.
Dear Mr. Editor:

May I use the columns of your paper once again to reply to those women who responded to my call for voluntary war workers.

From one end of Canada to another replies poured in, from women of all ages—from girls just finishing high school to a gay lass of seventy-two. I want now to thank all those who wrote to me, and I sincerely hope they will realize how impossible it is to reply to each individually.

The government has appointed Mrs. W. E. West as Director of Women's Voluntary Services. Her office is Room 273, New Supreme Court Building, Ottawa. All your letters have been passed over to her, since it is better that one person should organize and coordinate all the women's voluntary services, and any further enquiries should be addressed to her.

Mrs. West is a very energetic and capable person, and I am hoping that she will soon be able to draw many of you into needed work.

Thank you, Mr. Editor,
D. W. NIELSEN, M.P.

TOURIST TRADE ADVISORY BOARD

The set-up of a tourist trade advisory board in Alberta has been announced by Hon. E. C. Manning, Dan E. C. Campbell, director of provincial publicity and travel bureau, is chairman; with R. A. Godson, vice-president of the Alberta Motor Association, H. G. Love and Charles Trautwein, of Calgary, Mayor Elton of Lethbridge and Major J. A. Wood, superintendent of Jasper Park, as members. These men are all familiar with the tourist industry, and their advice should be valuable to the government.

Tony Schmiedl, well known Burnis rancher, passed away on Monday following a brief illness. His son Tony is with the Army somewhere in Eastern Canada. The remains will be laid to rest in the Catholic cemetery at Bellevue this afternoon.

A local man was caught in the act of assaulting a woman near the Columbus hall a few nights ago. Eye witnesses rushed to the rescue of the girl and succeeded in having the man placed under arrest. Appearing before Magistrate Graham on Tuesday morning, he was sentenced to two months imprisonment.

CANADIAN ARMY TRAIN

Residents of Blairmore and district will be given first hand knowledge as to what equipment is being provided for Canada's Army, when the Canadian Army Train goes on display here from 10 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturday, April 26th.

The train is made up of 15 coaches, including two flat cars, and the coaches are painted in the colors of the four Canadian Divisions now overseas—red, blue, French gray and maroon.

Lt. Col. J. E. McKenna, M.C., of Montreal, is the officer commanding the train, which carries more than three million dollars worth of army equipment. This vast array represents the tools of war which Canada is now manufacturing in large quantities.

Lt. Col. McKenna has under him a selected personnel of three officers and sixty other ranks in charge of various exhibits. Among these are three men from Alberta, Sgt. W. Harte, of Three Hills; Tpr. M. S. Craven, of Medicine Hat, and Pte. J. C. Mitchell, of Luscar. Two other men were sent from the Currie Infantry Training Centre at Calgary as members of the train staff, but their homes are in British Columbia.

BONDHOLDERS WILLING

The bondholders have always been ready to meet the province half way, and to agree to a reasonable and equitable plan and terms for refunding the Alberta debt. The only thing that has prevented any deal being consummated has been the unreasonable and unfair attitude of the government in demanding lower interest rates than could possibly be secured on any money market in the world. On thing is certain, Alberta cannot get money for refunding, or make arrangements for liquidating her debts on any lower interest rates than can these other provinces that have met their obligations and not defaulted on their debts.—The Spotlight.

GESTAPO RULE DEMONSTRATED

Der Deutschlander, successor to the Swift Current Sun, appeared for one day. It was the opening day of the Victory Loan drive, and the paper had most of its prominent citizens either held as hostages of the Gestapo or being sought by that evil organization. Dr. Josef Goebbels superseded Jim Greenblatt in his chatty page one column. Only page one was given over to the Germanized edition.

LOCAL AND GENERAL ITEMS

A pessimist is a man who usually lives with an optimist.

The Nova Scotia trout fishing season opens April 15th.

Wilfred Nyberg left for Calgary on Tuesday, where he hopes to enlist as a mechanic.

Our Able is sure lucky if he gets his craved title before his present term of office expires.

Wild geese in large numbers have been moving north over Nova Scotia, and occasionally stop there to say "Hello!"

The man who wrote that "death is the only end to a man's liabilities," must have lived before succession duties were invented.—Ex.

A train of cattle, 24 cars, bound for the U.S., passed west through Blairmore on Sunday morning. Another one of thirty cars passed through on Wednesday.

Remember the Easter Salad Tea to be held by the Ladies' Aid in the United church auditorium tomorrow afternoon from 3 to 6. There will be home cooking on sale.

This forty-mile-an-hour limit is the best thing this Alberta government has ever produced. Why not arrange it that if they want to travel at a greater rate, the tires or wheels should drop off?

A country does not have to be invaded to lose its freedom. Sweden is still neutral, but it had to suppress several newspapers lately because they printed some things the Germans did not like.—Ex.

A Social Credit caucus has given Hon. Solon Low a free hand in negotiating the best possible deal for refunding of Alberta's public debt of $147,000,000. Better make it $147,000 and make sure of it.

Triplets were born to Mr. and Mrs. Frye at High River on March 24th, all normal and healthy. They were all female, and have been named Whitey, Snowy and Ice Cream Puff. They were really not born to the managers, but to their sedate nanny-goat.

Aberhart should by now realize that he should adopt the federal idea of raising funds. It's easy to raise it, without cutting interest in half or quarter. The federal government can raise money to any amount, while the Aberhart outfit could not borrow a dollar.

Burial services for three more pieces of Social Credit legislation will be necessary. This time the acts disallowed by the Supreme Court of Canada are the Debt Proceedings Suspension Act 1941, the Orderly Payment of Land Debts Act 1941, and the Limitations of Actions Act 1935 Amendment Act 1941.

In connection with the plebiscite to be taken on April 27th, all Canadians worthy of the name are anxious to see this country pull its full weight along with the other United Nations, will mark their ballots "Yes." All residents in this country who are Nazi sympathizers, fifth columnists, and many others for selfish reasons of one kind or other, will vote "No." It is not enough just to be in favor of the plebiscite. It is the duty of all loyal Canadians to get out and work for it, and urge others to do likewise.

CLIP THIS OUT

Here's a list of items you are asked to save for the Salvage gathers. Hang this up for ready reminder:

Cast iron and steel, aluminum, copper, brass, zinc, lead, pewter, auto radiators, copper wires, batteries, bases from light bulbs, inner tubes and tires, and all kinds of rubber, metal coat hangers, bottle caps, typewriter ribbon spools, cartridges for Schick razor blades, etc.

Russian Army In Race Against Spring Thaws

Moscow.—The Red army, in a race against spring thaws and aided by night-riding Russian guerrillas, was reported to be newly threatening the approaches to Smolensk, 230 miles southwest of Moscow, a key German defence point which the Nazis captured last August.

The highly organized guerrilla bands were said to have killed 4,500 Germans during January and February—long before the regular Soviet army had reached that sector in the big winter counter-offensive.

The Soviet air force also destroyed or damaged several German tanks, armored cars, 41 trucks loaded with war materials, and several German placements, and wrecked three locomotives and 10 railway cars, a supplementary communiqué said.

This announcement also told of the recapture of another inhabited locality on the central front, where "hundreds of enemy dead were left on the field."

Massive increases in German aerial strength and multiplying Nazi counter-attacks on the ground involving, in some instances, superior German strength, were reported in Red army despatches from many sectors of the front.

More than 100 planes, raiders and defenders, fought a bitter battle over the increasingly important Arctic base of Murmansk, it was disclosed. The Germans lost 11 out of 66 planes in this attack and caused no damage, a Murmansk despatch said.

From other combat areas the increase in German planes was noted. In one case, they outnumbered the Russians 27 to three.

The many German counter-attacks, notably on the Kalinin front, northwest of Moscow and in the Donets basin, were described by the Communist newspaper Pravda as an "active defence" which has not wavered from the initiative from the Russians.

German despatches spoke of "the continuing thaw" in parts of the Russian battle front. They also disclosed a heavy Soviet attack on Oshatak, German spearhead garrison 100 miles west of Moscow, which the Russians have surrounded. The Germans claimed the attack was thrown back after hand-to-hand fighting. Repeated Red army attacks also were acknowledged in the Lake Ilmen sector, Staraya Russa and in the Donets basin.

A new approach to the second front theme was presented by I. Yermashev, well-known Soviet press spokesman, with an article in the Moscow News of Kubyshchev demanding that idle soldiers, guns, planes, tanks and warships be put into action.

"Now is the time to act—the anti-Hitler coalition can end Nazism in a relatively short time," Yermashev said. "Were Hitler to win a major victory on the eastern front, the other anti-Hitler major powers would be in deadly peril."

Every day is precious in this phase of the war, the article said, and "Hitler must be compelled to scatter his forces by being attacked on all sides."

ESSENTIAL WORK

Newspapers To Be Regarded As A Necessary Service

Ottawa.—Elliott M. Little, director of national selective service, said that he agreed with Labor Minister Mitchell that newspapers and news associations should be regarded as an essential service and nothing should be done to deprive them of qualified persons to ensure their efficient publication.

Mr. Mitchell, at a press conference following announcement of the national selective service plan by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, said newspapers should be looked on absolutely as an essential service in Canada.

"I agree with Mr. Mitchell that newspapers are essential services, and nothing will be done to deprive them of the necessary qualified persons to ensure that efficient publication," Mr. Little said.

"Of course, if a newspaper has more employees than are required, steps would be taken to deal with such a situation."

"On the other hand, if newspapers needed more help we would be sympathetic to transferring men from non-essential work if such would be feasible."

Use Tennis Balls

London.—The ministry of economic warfare said it had been puzzled by Germany's recent nationwide appeal for tennis balls until it realized they were used to make a buffer in the landing gear of gliders.

BRITAIN'S WAR EFFORT

Production Figures Increased More Than Forty Per Cent Since Last Fall

London.—An official spokesman said that war production figures had increased more than 40 per cent since last September but the ministry of supply "already sees a way to go far beyond this."

"The government will not be satisfied with anything less than the very greatest volume of production of which we are capable," he said.

He said the period of great physical expansion was past. Its peak and that "our task is to make the fullest possible use of our capacity."

More than 1,000,000 people are working for the ministry of supply in the manufacturing of engines alone, he said.

In more than 40 ordnance factories, 300,000 workers are employed while 20,000 are employed in smaller factories.

Warning Given Of Critical Days That Lie Ahead

Ottawa.—Creation of two new army divisions as "a mobile reserve" for coastal defence, a "marked increase" in aerial forces, operations in Canada, and unlimited plans for naval expansion were announced by Prime Minister Mackenzie King in a war review.

Mr. King warned there is no knowledge of possession of the government to indicate either that a long struggle but he expressed confidence in ultimate victory for the free nations.

Basic coastal defences are "either completed or in process of completion," the prime minister said, but "no matter how complete our defences may be we can never be sure of preventing the enemy from attempting some form of attack."

Mr. King preceded his prepared speech with comments on postwar reconstruction measures which are before parliament and said it was "conceivable" that introduction of such measures might lead people to think the government had knowledge leading it to believe an early termination of the war was possible.

"I wish emphatically to dispel any possible impression of that kind," he said. "At no time since the commencement of the war was the international situation for the free countries of the world as it is at present."

"It would be little short of a miracle if the war terminated within what some would describe as a short time."

"I have no doubt that this year goes by successfully, as I believe it will, with the increased production of munitions and the increased power that will be brought together from the different united nations, ultimately the free nations will triumph."

"I believe they will. But before that moment is reached there is going to be a vastly different world than we have ever known in the past and I believe even vastly different from the world as we know it at the moment."

"That being the case I hope no impression will exist anywhere, either in this house or in the country, that the government entertains other than the most serious views of the very critical situation that exists in the world today."

Conservative House Leader Hanson, who followed Mr. King, said he hoped the people of Canada would heed the prime minister's words.

"I am afraid that even right down to this minute the people of Canada are not awake to the perils of the international situation," he said.

"The Canadian people, irrespective of class, race or creed, must get behind any and every effort that it is possible to make to win the war."

Lower Price In Canned Goods
Ottawa.—Reduction in prices charged by canners for some 35 kinds of domestic canned fruits and vegetables will become effective April 1, the wartime prices and trade board announced.

The board said action was being taken to bring cost prices to wholesalers and retailers into "reasonable relation with their maximum selling prices."

Pass Gift Bill

Ottawa.—The senate passed the government's bill providing for a $1,000,000,000 gift to the United Kingdom and gave second reading to the wheat acreage reduction act. The latter measure was referred to the banking and commerce committee.

NEW SUGAR ORDER

Affecting The Use And Distribution For Industry And Households

Ottawa.—The wartime prices and trade board announced new orders affecting the use of sugar both in households and industry to distribute "most effectively the available supplies and to allocate this quick energy-producing food in accordance with the urgency of need."

The new orders make some exemptions from the rationing plan which became effective Feb. 10, and also add some new restrictions.

Manufacturers of condensed milk are exempted from the rationing order because milk can be shipped more easily to the Allied battlefronts in condensed form.

These orders also provide that seamen on merchant vessels and salt water fishermen when they are afloat, as well as workers in isolated contractors' camps, will be allowed more than the regular sugar ration of three-quarters of a pound a week.

R.A.F. Causes Much Damage
Paris.—Nazi authorities here placed at 7,000,000 francs (about $140,000) the property damage caused by the Royal Air Force in its March 3 assault on suburban Paris industrial plants which were making war materials for the Germans. The Nazis said 350 buildings were destroyed.

In Prison Camp
London.—The Polish Telegraphic agency reported that 70 Polish priests aged 60 to 80 had been removed by the Nazis from a home for aged and retired clergy at Clichoniek and sent to the dreaded concentration camp of Dachau in Germany.

Ready For Work
Washington.—Lord Beaverbrook, former British minister of production, arrived by plane from Miami to assist in creating an international organization to co-ordinate Anglo-American supplies and production.

Churchill's Pilot Awarded O.B.E.
Ottawa.—W. H. Male, of Toronto, has been appointed deputy to James Stewart of Toronto, administrator of services for the wartime prices and trade board, the board announced.

His new responsibilities will be to direct the program for conservation of rubber, gasoline and automotive equipment generally.

Captain Kelly Rogers, who piloted Prime Minister Winston Churchill from Bermuda to Britain after his recent visit with President Roosevelt, has been awarded the Order of the British Empire at a recent investiture conducted by the King. Captain Rogers is shown here with his sister, Mrs. Carroll, an officer in the W.A.A.F., after the investiture.

McNAUGHTON VISITS ROOSEVELT AT WHITE HOUSE

Lieut.-General A. G. L. McNughton, commander-in-chief of Canadian army forces at home and abroad, paid a visit to President Roosevelt at the White House. Gen. McNughton was on a two-day mission in Washington. He is shown here with Hon. Leighton McCarthy, Canadian minister to Washington, who took him to the White House.

NAZI REPRISALS

Report That Seventy-Five Serbs Have Been Executed

Berne, Switzerland.—Seventy-five Serbs have been executed in reprisal for the killing of a police chief in a bold attack on a main Belgrade street, a Budapest despatch to the Neue Zürcher Zeitung reported.

The despatch said Police Chief Kosmajic, head of the anti-Communist department of police in the Axis-occupied Serb state, and a detective who accompanied him were shot down by Komitadjis, members of a Serb patriot secret order.

The killers were not found.

India Defence Against Danger Of Jap Attack

Japan's seizure of the Andaman Islands within 650 miles of Calcutta emphasizes the danger of an early invasion of India or at least air and sea attacks against her coasts.

The threat leads Britain well prepared to meet an invasion from the west through the famed Khyber pass, but little is known of her defences in the east, where she must meet the Japanese surge.

For years Britain has spent funds fortifying the wild northwestern frontier with heavy guns hidden in the cliffs, pillboxes and miles of deep trenches.

But along the 1,400-mile eastern coast line there are no known fixed fortifications of strength for great ports as Calcutta and Madras and the lesser but strategic port of Cingapore in the north which might be used to supply China and Burma.

The only point of known strength is Ceylon, off the southeast coast, where the naval base of Trincomalee is situated.

The strength of this point, 800 miles from Port Blair in the Andamans, may prove a surprise to the Japanese. Britain is known to have spent considerable money there in recent years—quietly.

It has repair facilities for light cruisers and small vessels and fuel storage facilities, and probably is about equal in importance to the fallen Netherlands naval base of Surabaya in Java.

Vice-Admiral Sir Geoffrey Layton, who left Singapore to organize Britain's naval defence of the Far East, has been made commander of land, air and sea forces at Ceylon, an island of 25,000 square miles and 500,000 population, and has taken steps to remove unnecessary civilians. Lt. Gen. Sir Henry Pownall, former vice-chief of the British Imperial board, has been named commander of the army there.

India's light fleet of corvettes, patrol vessels and mine sweepers may have been reinforced.

India's great river systems of the Ganges and Brahmaputra in the north might afford formidable obstacles to a land advance, but Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell has announced that he would fight a war of movement, not position.

India is believed to have forces of nearly 1,000,000 men in the country, but they are not reported to be well equipped, and perhaps not completely trained.

Importance Of Middle East For The Allied Cause

London.—The Middle East appears to be Britain's second front for 1942. There will be a continental invasion some time in the future, but in the great battles of this year the main strength of the embattled empire is likely to be required in the Middle East, Burma and along the Allies' maritime communications.

Great hazards and difficulties of equipment, training and supply face any Allied force depending on the heavily-guarded shores of German western Europe.

These conclusions were reached after two weeks of investigating the possibility of a continental invasion this spring.

Information on which the conclusions are drawn were culled from conversations with officers of the three fighting services, experts on international affairs and Allied military observers.

Agitation for a second front is mounting. Public comment indicates the people are more concerned over it than any military enterprise since the outbreak of the war.

Agitation for a second front apparently are not satisfied with simultaneous raids by the three services tential to that on Brunei, where Commandos destroyed the Nazi radio station. Though the fighting services are secret, it is obvious that the most persons consulted think such raids, involving air, sea and land forces, are an ideal weapon to keep the Germans off balance from the North Cape to the Bay of Biscay.

All the evidence is that such raids will increase in number and intensity. The Libyan front, into which Britain poured brains, men and equipment for two years, is vastly important.

Strong British forces there will divert as many Germans from the Russian front as they would if they landed in northern France, sources here declare. It was revealed recently that an entire German air fleet was sent to support Rommel's army.

The Times recently outlined British strategy for 1942 in an editorial which declared the "grand pattern" of the Allied war effort was taking shape.

This pattern, according to the Times, is: "While Russia boldly confronts the weight of German land power on the continent, Great Britain must guard her own and Russian maritime communications and must hold the crucial Middle East bridge and the Indian bridgehead."

Many military men emphasize that a British landing on the continent would not divert sufficient troops from the Russian front to make any difference there. They are confident the Red army will check the German offensive in the spring.

MORE ACTIVITY

Britain Expects Increased Attacks Against Supply Lines To Russia

London.—Increasing attacks by German air, naval and undersea forces against Britain's supply lines to Russia with the coming of longer summer days are predicted by authoritative British circles.

They said U-boats attacks already had been intensified in the Caribbean and off the east coast of United States, and declared Britain was giving the United States "all help possible" in fighting the submarine menace there.

These sources said the Germans had gained "considerable success" in the Western Atlantic but said this was "only to be expected" until a system of convoys, escorts and anti-submarine patrols was organized fully.

They said that with British and United States men-o-war on the job, the Allies had withstood the German attacks on the supply line across the North Atlantic during the winter.

AWARDED MEDAL

Highest Decoration Of U.S. Army Given To Gen. MacArthur

Washington.—The award of the congressional medal of honor to Gen. Douglas MacArthur for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity in action against the invading Japanese forces was announced by the United States war department.

In a radiogram to Maj.-Gen. Richard K. Sutherland, MacArthur's chief of staff, President Roosevelt directed Nelson I. Johnson, United States minister to Australia, to present the medal in his name to MacArthur.

The medal is the highest decoration for valor which the army can bestow on a soldier.

OUR ABIE SHOULD WAKE UP!

Hon J. L. Hiley defends the policy of paying interest on money borrowed by the government. "We offer a fair rate of interest in order to induce people to save and to lend their savings to us. We buy or hire their savings, in effect, just as we buy or hire the services of the munitions worker or the civil servant. We pay the market price for it, just as we do for other goods or services, and that price is fair and reasonable. Indeed it is surprisingly low in relation to the enormous demand we have for savings now in comparison to pre-war conditions; and, of course, our whole conception of the scale of interest rates has changed since last war."—High River Times.

"HIGH FLIGHT"

Pilot Officer John Magee, Jr., an American citizen, was killed on active service with the Royal Canadian Air Force on December 11th. This 19-year-old son of Rev. and Mrs. John Magee, of Washington, D.C., gave up a scholarship at Yale to enlist in the R.C.A.F. in October, 1940. In September of 1941, after a flight into the stratosphere, he scribbled this sonnet on the back of an envelope, entitled "High Flight."

Oh! I have slipped the surly bonds of earth
And danced the skies on laughter-silvered wings;
Sunward I've climbed, and joined the tumbling mirth
Of sun-split clouds — and done a hundred things
You have not dreamed of — wheeled and soared and swung
High in the sunlit silence. How'ring there
I've chased the shouting wind along, and flung
My eager craft through footless halls of air.
Up, up the long, delirious, burning blue
I've topped the wind-swept heights with easy grace
Where never lark, nor even eagle flew—
And, while with silent lifting mind I've trod
The high, untrampled sanctity of space,
Put out my hand and touched the face of God.

The original envelope-manuscript is now in the Library of Congress in a collection called "Poems of Freedom," which includes works of Burns, Longfellow, Clough, Walt Whitman and Shelley.

NEWS FROM EDMONTON

(T. B. Windsor)

Edmonton, March 31.—Alberta Social Credit incompetence received another crack on the knuckles last week, when the federal government disallowed three more of the Aberhart debt legislation acts. These three are the Debt Proceedings Suspension Act, 1941; the Orderly Payment of Land Debts Act, and the Limitations of Actions Act, 1935, as amended in 1941.

This means that practically the whole of the Alberta government's debt legislation, which it has relied on as its chief vote-catching legislation, has been declared incompetent for the objects of its legal aims. The whole of this debt legislation is in the class of amateur and ineffective laws.

The government was professing to be working to "protect" the poor debtors of the province, but went about this aim in such an incompetent and misguided manner that today, after six years, the poor debtors of Alberta are exactly in the same place they occupied before Aberhart and his advisers, Maynard, began their childish efforts to place ultra vires legislation on the statute books.

In recommending to the government that the acts should be disallowed, Justice Minister St. Laurent said, "it appeared to be part and parcel of a scheme of debt repudiation and oppression of long-term creditors," and that described perfectly both the legislation and policy that promoted it.

People all over Alberta, and in every part of Canada, now are wondering when the electors of Alberta will take a tumble to themselves and return to normal political views. When will they disown the Calgary Social Credit Leader and his impracticable and visionary theories?

It seems now to be about time that Premier Aberhart took thought himself for the way his policies are drifting. He needs competent legal advice in his cabinet, which he has not got. He needs more than the inexperience of a young lawyer to guide him as a cabinet member in framing legislation for the benefit of the citizens of Alberta that will stand the test of constitution.

The Debt Proceedings Suspension Act empowered the lieutenant-governor-in-council to prohibit by order until after a day fixed by the order the issue of processes for the recovery in respect of any debt, and the issue of proceedings by way of distress, repossession and extra judicial proceedings of any nature whatsoever in respect of or for the purpose of enforcing any debt.

Mr. St. Laurent said the federal justice department held that while the Alberta acts purported merely to effect a moratorium, it was so discriminatory in character that it might properly be described as being part and parcel of the unconstitutional scheme of debt repudiation.

The justice department finding said: "Like the Debt Adjustment Act recently held by the Supreme Court of Canada to be ultra vires, this statute enables the executive, contrary to constitutional principles, to deny access to the courts."

The Orderly Payment of Land Debt Act provides that no "farmer debtor" shall be deemed to be in default under any mortgage or agreement for sale if the crop grown and harvested on the lands covered by the mortgage or agreement of sale any year amounts to less than 10 bushels per seeded acre, or so long as any such debtor shall deliver or offer to deliver to his creditor a one-fifth or one-quarter share of all crops grown and harvested, depending on whether the crop is between 10 and 15 bushels to the seeded acre or is more than 15 bushels to the seeded acre.

Another section provides that no "urban debtor" shall be deemed to be in default under a mortgage or agreement for sale if the annual gross income of such debtor "and his spouse" be less than $1,000, or so long as he makes or tenders a payment of 10 per cent, 15 per cent or 20 per cent of the combined income of himself and his wife, depending on whether such gross income is between $1,000 and $1,500, between $1,500 and $2,000 or between $2,000 and $2,500.

Other sections provide that no action for sale under or foreclosure of a mortgage shall be taken until there has been a default in accordance with other terms of the act.

The justice department held that banks and other lending institutions were barred by this act from enforcing securities in the courts, including the bankruptcy court, by changes purported to be made in contractual obligations.

"The act would seem to affect not only the remedy but the right itself," said the department.

The act was further held to alter contracts for the payment of interest validly entered into in accordance with the Interest Act and prohibited the enforcement of contractual rights under valid Dominion legislation, it was held.

The Limitations of Actions Act changed the period of limitations for actions to enforce mortgages or agreements for sale from ten years to six. It added a section to the limitations of action act of 1935, a section to exclude from the calculation of the time within which any action or other proceedings must be begun, the period during which the proceedings are stayed, and the period during which a debtor is not in default, under a contract or judgment as affected by a proposal binding upon the debtor and his creditors under the farmers' creditors arrangement.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN "BIGHORN" SHEEP, BANFF NATIONAL PARK, ALBERTA, CANADA

The Bighorn sheep in Canada is now only found amidst the high mountains of the Rockies and throughout British Columbia and the Yukon Territory, although Catlin and other early writers make it clear that they used to frequent the foothill country for a considerable distance beyond the foot of the mountains proper.

Their natural range is on or just above timber line, although they make many excursions high up on the rocks or down into the valleys.

There are several varieties of the Bighorn sheep in different parts of the country, but the differences are mainly of coloration. The average weight of a six-year-old is 300 pounds, while the ewes are considerably smaller. Like domestic sheep, the Bighorn is strictly gaminivorous and will only browse when driven to it by hunger.

The Bighorn is a graceful animal, much given to statuesque poses. It is colored like a deer and has a white nose and rump. The ram has magnificent curving horns. In a full-grown ram the horns may be 36 inches long, measured around the outside of the curve, and 18 inches around at the base, in which case they will weigh about 35 pounds or one-ninth the animal's total weight. Ewes have small spike horns.

Bighorns are splendid climbers, although most naturalists agree that they are not the equal of the Rocky Mountain Goat. Thompson Seton makes the distinction that the goat is essentially a climber, while the sheep is a sure-footed boulder like the Chamois.

Crop Production Programme
for the PRARIE PROVINCES, 1942

Canada's War Requirements Call for:

A production of wheat limited to what can be sold in the domestic and export markets during the crop year 1942-43.

An unlimited production of coarse grains for live stock feeding to produce . . . the Animal Products and Fats needed in the Domestic Market . . . the Bacon, Dairy Products and Eggs wanted by Britain.

A greatly increased production of Flaxseed to meet Vegetable Oil Needs of Canada and the United States in view of War Developments.

GRAIN MARKETING POLICY

WHEAT—Deliveries to remain limited.

Price to be increased.
Authorized deliveries: 280 million bu. from Western Canada as compared with 230 million bu. authorized from all Canada last year. This 280 million bu. is believed all that can be marketed in the 1942-43 crop year; and the expected carryover of 400 million bu. at July 31, 1942, will constitute an adequate war reserve. Individual deliveries will again be determined on a quota basis.

Price: The initial price for deliveries in 1942-43 under authorized quotas will be 90 cents per bu., basis No. 1 Northern in store Fort William-Fort Arthur or Vancouver. This 20 cents price increase plus higher authorized deliveries considerably enhances the wheat outlook for 1942-43 as compared with that of 1941-42. (Note: Higher delivery price of wheat not to affect the price of bread in Canada.)

COARSE GRAINS—Unlimited production.

Price Floors: To safeguard the position of farmers who increase their production of barley and oats; a. A minimum price is established for barley at 60 cents basis No. 2 C. W. 6-Row in store Fort William-Fort Arthur.

b. A minimum price is established for oats at 45 cents basis No. 2 C. W. in store Fort William-Fort Arthur.

In connection with barley and oat prices, the Canadian Wheat Board is empowered to carry out the policy.

FLAXSEED—Unlimited production.
Price: A fixed price is established for flaxseed at $2.25 basis No. 1 C. W. in store Fort William-Fort Arthur. Canadian Wheat Board empowered to purchase and handle all flaxseed delivered by producers in Canada during the crop year 1942-43.

WHEAT-ACREAGE REDUCTION POLICY

LIMITED WHEAT ACREAGE.

Since but 280 million bu. wheat can be delivered in the 1942-43 crop year, regardless of how good the crop may be, only about 20 or 21 million acres should be sown to wheat in 1942 or about what was sown in 1941.

PAYMENTS FOR ACREAGE DIVERSION.

It is contemplated that $2 per acre will be paid on land taken out of wheat and either summer-fallowed or sown to barley, oats, flax, rye, peas, corn, clover, grasses, or millet. These payments are designed to assist farmers who co-operate in the wheat-acreage reduction programme and to encourage the production of coarse grains and other live stock feeds.

The above payments are to be based on the number of acres by which the farmer reduces his wheat acreage in 1942 as compared with the basic acreage in 1940. To obtain the payments the farmer must sow to coarse grain or grasses, or must summer-fallow, areas in excess of the basic 1940 acreage sown to these crops or left in summer-fallow.

The crop production programme in western Canada is intended to provide maximum quantities of agricultural products most vital to war needs and at the same time ensure a balance in production plans that will permit successful farm practice in the Prairie Provinces.

P. F. A. AMENDMENT.

It is proposed to amend the Prairie Farm Assistance Act by removing the price restriction of eighty cents per bushel in the determination of an emergency year under the Act.

War Requirements Call for More Hogs, More Milk, More Beef,
More Wool, More Eggs, More Fats and Oils In 1942

AN EDMONTONIAN'S STORY OF THE GAZZUK ORIGIN

Thanks for your classification as Gazzuk Historian: the peccadilloes of youth always catch up with you.

Yes, all this happened more than 25 years ago and I wonder whether you really know the whole story.

It began in Edmonton when a Mr. Sopwith, armed with numerous letters of introduction, walked into Jack Sterling's office. Coming from an old mining family, and one not unknown in aviation and bostracing circles, he was exported for the purpose of mutually improving himself and possibly this land of opportunity.

After a lengthy conversation, Jack decided to switch him on to Elijah Heathcote, then mines inspector in the Edmonton district. Elijah was not a young man, and after standing the pressure for a little while, decided to direct Sopwith to the care of another Englishman as far away as possible from the capital city. The writer, being in the Crow, was selected.

One summer evening, Wm. Hamilton phoned from Passburg, apparently in some haste and perturbation, to inform the writer that one of his countrymen wanted to see him. He couldn't explain why, but would send him down right away. No, he did not know exactly who he was or just what he wanted, but he would see that he got down without delay.

The next morning, along came Sopwith, complete with golf clubs, who it appears had had the devil's own time in trying to find the bathroom that morning. Later it was learned that at an early hour a ghost-like figure had been roaming the Hamilton establishment clad in pyjamas and a towel.

He had letters of introduction, a good tip on the Derby, and wanted a job. His last previous activity was in a South African gold mine, which he had the presence of mind to leave while still in possession of funds to cover transportation.

Sopwith was quite a character. He mixed well, was an entertaining conversationalist, did not easily take offense, loved good food and wine, and had a good opinion of Tom Duncan, who then had the Passburg hotel.

When he walked into the Sanitarium Hotel at Frank one hot Sunday, dressed in white ducks, he caused a sensation, from which Frank Aspinall never completely recovered.

After working at the mine for some little time, Hayden Riddle asked him one afternoon if he was going out with the boys on Sunday on the hunting trip. He explained, most casually, that a gazuk had been seen, and finally Sopwith admitted that he might have seen one in a zoo. This hunting party was to include Riddle, George Carson, Tommy Sloan, Rufe Banemer, Allan Ford and Bob Rawlinson, and George Carson loaned Sopwith a rifle.

It is alleged that Sopwith turned out bright and early with the rifle and lots of pep, but for some reason the rest of the party slept in and the gazuk got away. This must be the one you refer to as leaving tracks near the old Wolstenholme ranch. They live to a great age.

A simple story, but the after effects were profound. A "gazzuk" society was formed, and for some time Jack Skilling was corresponding secretary. It was mainly through the activities of this society that so many topical problems were publicized. Attention was directed to the padding of football teams with good players towards the ends of the season, the building of necessary steel bridges, laying of natural-gas lines, the high quality of Tom Duncan's scotch, Frankie Allen's excellent service (the cultivation of square trees) and last, but not least, the inspiring life history of the gazuk.

The writer feels constrained to disassociate himself from the honor bestowed upon him as Historian, which more properly belongs to the Society. Some day, some enterprising individual may take up the study of pink elephants, and from such a person we may get further information on the evolution of gazzuks.

THE SOLDIER APPRECIATES A LETTER

The following by an army private at Fort Bliss, Texas, reveals the soldiers' intense desire for more letters from home:

As a "Regular" in the army, since nineteen thirty-three, You'd think I'd grew calloused to the things I hear or see; But standing in the "Troop Street" at mail call yesterday, I saw a "Dog Face" standing by, and heard him sadly say:

"No mail for me today, sarge? Not even just a line?"

I haven't got a letter, sarge, in such a long, long time; Guess no one loves me any more."

He said this like a joke— But standing on the side lines you could see him almost choke.

He ain't been in so very long, though I guess it seems a year; Now he thinks he's been forgotten by the ones he holds so dear,

Tain't such a lovely feeling, for the boys on land or foam,

To think they've been forgotten by the folks at home, sweet home.

The sweetest girl in all the world that promised to be true Is a slacker to her duty, unless she drops a line or two.

There's mothers, too, God bless them, there's no one near so fine; Yet "soldier days" pass mighty slow when they don't drop a line.

There's dad who'd give his life blood to help "his boy" to fight, But business deals come 'round so fast that he forgets to write.

If they could see the heartache I read behind that line, "No mail for me today, sarge—not even just a line?"

They'd know it's hard to battle, whether it's real or sham, When you're choked up with that feeling that no one gives a damn;

So in this hell out war we're on, on land and air or foam, Just don't forget to do your bit—with a little note from home.

No medal here or Cross de Guerre, or citation across the foam, Can brighten up a soldier's day, like a little note from home.

BRITAIN'S WAR BRIDES SUR-RENDER PLATINUM RINGS

Between six and ten wedding rings of platinum will supply the electrodes for the sparking plugs of one aero engine. Britain's war brides are therefore leaving the altar with rings made of palladium, a metal named after the planet Pallas, from Pallas Athene the Greek goddess of knowledge whose image the ancients believed brought good fortune.

British jewellers like the metal because it works quite as easily as platinum. In engagement rings it holds the stones securely and with its untarnishable brilliance brings out all their fire and color. It is indeed proving ideal for all kinds of rings, and also, as it is about 40 per cent lighter than platinum, for cigarette and vanity cases, bracelets and other articles where lightness, strength and beauty are desired.

Pure palladium, like pure platinum, is too soft for jewellery work, so it is toughened by the addition of small quantities of rhodium and ruthenium, two even more precious metals of the platinum group. In this state it is called by the trade Kerba palladium which goes to Britain chiefly from Canada.

Kerba palladium costs $7 10s an ounce, as against $9 an ounce for jewellers' platinum, but, as it is so much lighter, it goes further. In value it is comparable with 18-carat gold, and it is much more desirable because even in the alloy state it is precious metal throughout.

Joe said he heard on Sunday afternoon last that some old prophetic psalm over the radio, "Jewusalem, etc." It must have come from Edmon-

These beautiful little animals live on the great open plains in the semi-arid belt of the West which extends over the southerly parts of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta and all through the United States into Mexico.

Today there are very few antelope left in Canada, but there is a small band of about 500 maintained by the National Parks Branch at Nemiskam Park in Southern Alberta.

Biologically, the antelope is something of a freak, possessing in itself certain physical characteristics which are not found combined in any other animal. Its worst unique peculiarity is that it has true horns, like a cow or goat, with a bony core covered by a hollow horn, which it sheds annually like a deer.

Another curious feature of its anatomy is a patch of white hair on each buttock, which it is capable of expanding like a white fan as a signal of alarm and warning.

Antelope can run faster than any other animal except a race horse, in the opinion of Thompson Seton, who makes an interesting comparison of speed in animals; he credits the horse with a speed of 34 miles per hour, antelope 32 miles, greyhound 30 miles and jackrabbit 28 miles.

A full-grown antelope buck will weigh from 100 to 125 pounds, while the does are smaller.

Value of construction contracts awarded by the munitions and supply department on behalf of the armed forces since July, 1939, now exceeds $200,000,000.

Corvettes are being built in 11 Canadian shipyards, said a return tabled in the House of Commons. Waste paper totalling 2,000,000 tons annually is available for collection in England.

A special British army order announced a royal warrant for formation of an army air corps.

SO YOU'RE GOING TO DO A PLAY?

Speech

As the play progresses the speech of the various members of the cast should be checked very carefully. Of course the odd word which is not part of your daily vocabulary has by this time been looked up in the dictionary, and the correct pronunciation ascertained. It may be necessary to make a practice of using this new word every day to get accustomed to it so that it will not be a hurdle every time you meet it. But it is the little every day words I wish to discuss; those little words we never think about until someone draws them to our attention, and which makes our voices heard distinctly at the back of any hall.

For instance, how often do you hear, Mary Ann Joe for Mary and Joe; he told me for he told her; where for old man. Have you noticed how many people follow the endings of their words? She was single; where was he gone; he was running to the store. Can you say "Entreat me not to leave thee" quickly, where you have trouble when you come to the two I's in "not to"? Do you not often slide the one word right into the other when saying hot dog, fresh fish, fresh fried fish, fast time, a big black bag, a big black bear, sister Susie, news shirts for soldiers, a cup of Cadbury's cocoa, etc.

Consonantal Sounds

Or do you notice the consonantal sound missed in the middle of words like this: February (Feb'ruary), government (gov'ernment), library for lib'rary, particular for par'ticular, nap, recognize for recog'nize, etc. Or do you hear folks add a letter thus: Acroft for across, drowned for drowned, onct for once. Or have you heard consonantal sounds transposed thus: interduce for introduce, hundred for hundred, childern for children, or do you recognize this: Wergero for where did she go? Cesse the prade for did you see the parade? I'm gonna gout for I'm going to go out. Or have you an acquaintance insert a vowel like this: filum for film, vathr for there, pEriare for prairie, unBrella for umbrella, etc.

Vowels

Or do we omit vowels in our enthusiasm: Diffrent for different, family for family, evry for every. Have you looked up the following recently: of, Tien, au(B)tle, cor(P)is, etc.

Next week we'll change the subject. If you are writing for further information enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope for reply.—Mary Ellen Burgess, Box 326, Regina, Sask. Sask.

A Trifle Mixed

American slang, which always has enchanted the British, baffled them recently. The British Press Association gave British newspapers this version of the trans-Atlantic tongue in reporting the menus of United States troops in Northern Ireland: "Bacon and eggs, known as 'dapp-jacks,' have been scarce but they will now be a regular feature of the morning diet." 2457

Help Locate Targets

Refugees From Occupied Countries Supply British Ministry With Maps

Thousands of foreign guide-books, maps, technical periodicals, directories and other reference works no longer obtainable through usual pre-war channels are pouring into the ministry of economic warfare which uses them to fix potential targets in Nazi-occupied territory.

A ministry official discussing results of an appeal for the material said that thanks to the donor of one obscure foreign reference book the whereabouts of a certain vital factory in Nazi-occupied Europe have been settled. "The book provided the missing link in a chain of evidence," he said. "For some time we had been trying to locate the position."

The mother of a dead Royal Air Force pilot sent her son's collection of foreign maps with an accompanying note which said that if they helped to drive bombs on German objectives she would feel her boy's death has been avenged.

Refugees from occupied territories have sent hundreds of guide-books, maps and journals with pictures of factories and other key sites.

Threads Of Milk

Cloth Is Now Made From Casein In United States

Americans will be wearing dresses and other clothes made from milk by spring, and the cow will be launched in a new role as fashion aid, is the forecast by dairy products researchers.

Success in processing a new textile fibre from casein, by-product of skim milk, after four years of experimenting is cause for the predictions by the National Dairy Products Corporation.

The fibre is said to be the first derived from milk which is "acceptable" to the American textile industry, and fabrics are now being manufactured containing threads of milk—Science Service.

Are Used To Guard War Production Plant In U.S.

Robot sentries are guarding miles of wire fencing enclosing many of the United States war production plants. The Du Pont Company disclosed. Six months of tests have proved the new sentry system the most efficient yet devised, the company said, with the robots "hearing" a person's whisper or the snip of a wire-cutter and passing these warning sounds instantly to a watchman at his post and to a central guard station inside the plant.

Welcome The Chance

People Of Canada Glad To Conform To Government Regulations

It may seem odd that there is almost no criticism of these measures (government restrictions), that in fact the public seem to welcome them. The explanation is, of course, that the people welcome the chance to make some direct and personal contribution to the war effort, however small, and realize that the inconveniences to which they are put weigh mightily little in the balance when against them are put the slaughter and destruction wrought upon so many countries just as anxious as this one to maintain their freedom.—Ottawa Journal.

CHRIST AND LIFE AFTER DEATH (EASTER)

Golden text: Thanks be to God, who give us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.—1 Corinthians 15:57.

Lesson: Mark 12:24-27; 1 Corinthians 15:42-49.

A Captious Question in Regard to the Resurrection. Mark 12:24-27.

At the attempt of the Pharisees and Herodians to "catch him in his talk" by means of their question concerning the resurrection to Christ had fallen, the Sadducees next sought to confound and humiliate Jesus. Sadducees held there was no resurrection, neither angel, nor spirit, Luke tells us in Acts 23:8. Suppose, now, they said to Jesus, that a woman marries seven brothers in succession, whose wife shall she be in the resurrection? Instead of treating their question as unworthy an answer, Jesus leaned upon it a lofty lesson. "Is it not for this cause that ye err," he courteously replied, "that ye know not the Scriptures, nor the power of God? For when they shall rise from the dead, they neither marry, nor are given in marriage, but are as angels in heaven."

Again Jesus won a victory over his enemies, and again the people marvelled. "Men laid their traps and tried to catch him; he walked bravely in the midst of them and never was entrapped. The intellectual athletes of his time tried to trip him; they never did. His enemies did their best to upset him; they never could."

We also are constrained to confess that a mind which would so swiftly and naturally elude all traps, baffles all sophistry, and convince even some of his foes that he spoke God's truths without fear, must have possessed a quality of superb intellectuality." (Willie A. Grist).

The Resurrection of the Dead, 1 Corinthians 15:50-58. Such a spiritual body as Paul has been speaking about (verses 35-49) is absolutely necessary in the Kingdom of God. Human nature in its habitation of flesh and blood cannot take possession of the Kingdom of God; nor does corruption take possession of incorruption. Corruption of earthly bodies is inevitable, but the spiritual life resident in them will continue in the hereafter.

Paul attempts to describe the transformation of the living and the dead that will take place on the great day of the Lord when the trumpet will sound. Evidently he thought that day might come even in his lifetime. "Behold, I tell you a mystery," he exclaims. The true meaning of the word "mystery," we know, is not something that puzzles and perplexes one; rather it is an open secret waiting to be discovered. (1 Th. 4:16; Mt. 24:31; Rev. 11:15).

Health
LEAGUE OF CANADA
VITAL
PASTEURIZED MILK

To the half truths and misconceptions about raw and pasteurized milk.

Frank Chamberlain replies with a factual article in Health, the official magazine of the Health League of Canada.

"Since Ontario pasteurized its milk 'in law,'" States Mr. Chamberlain, "there has been a striking reduction in the incidence of disease known to be connected with raw milk."

Mr. Chamberlain quotes Dr. Alan Brown, physician-in-chief of the Hospital for Sick Children, as saying: "Scientific pasteurization absolutely prevents the 15 to 20 per cent. of bone, gland and abdominal tuberculosis in children which is of bovine origin, and in addition prevents all milk-borne epidemics. The prevention of these conditions alone would save many lives, numerous cripples and much money for the taxpayer each year."

Besides tuberculosis, unpasteurized milk spreads such epidemics as Typhoid, Paratyphoid, Scarlet Fever and Septic Sore Throat. The writer cites an instance of epidemic septic sore throat, an epidemic which where an outbreak of 10,000 cases was traced to one raw milk supply.

"Uniformed people oppose pasteurization because it supposedly damages milk, destroying calcium and vitamins—that it spoils the taste," he writes. He denies any truth to such statements. Pasteurization does not alter the calcium content of milk. Vitamin C, which prevents scurvy, is said to be reduced slightly by pasteurization. Vitamin D which prevents rickets—is not affected at all. "But, Mr. Chamberlain points out, 'in any case there is not enough of either vitamin C or D in cows milk to supply the needs of the growing infant and all babies should be given orange juice to supply the deficiency in Vitamin C and cod liver oil to supply the necessary Vitamin D.'"

The one spot in the human body where blood vessels are said to be transparent is the back of the eye.

CHAPTER XV.

Ransome wondered what the other guests would think if he did what his heart dictated. Now, he thought grimly glancing down the whiteness of the linen, the sparkling of the glass and silver—now would be a good time. Just in between the last course and the coffee.

If the stories he had heard of old Knox Randolph were true, then he had his example before him. His eyes studied the young man in the portrait before him. Strong, handsome features, arrogant and proud, blue eyes like Tami's, jetting black brows. Delicate embroidery of a sounce in the open waistcoat, and flowing tie at throat. Tight knee breeches and elegant boots.

Knox had pounded over the turf of the downs and won the derby and Tami Ellery. The story went that he did not stop at the Judge's stand for his winnings, but swept up to the crowd of young men and women. Reaching out in his saddle, he had swooped up Tami Ellery right out of the very arms of his rival.

And they had been married an hour later right here at Shadwell.

Ranny thought, if he had his horse, Tahlshneka II, here, it would be easy enough. "I'm sorry, what is it, Selby?" he was caught in the stream of conversation once more.

And thus the evening went. He must talk and he must listen whether he wanted to or not. And Christopher Sande could warm his traditionally cold Yankee heart by the light of Tami's eyes. It made a cold, hard, aching feeling in Ranny's chest.

He was glad when dinner was over, and the evening half through.

They returned to the living room.

and went from there to the terrace, to sit on the shadowed lawn bathed in moonlight. Now and then a car passed on the highway, with its radio drifting back soft dance music. Ransome stirred restlessly. What a gorgeous night to waste on Christopher Sande and Selby.

The next day Tami watched Sande leave to go back to his hotel in the little town of Tahlshneka. It left the other hours barren and empty.

The summer months were drifting by, she realized with a start one day. In the weeks since the dinner, she had seen Ransome Todd but a few times. And on those occasions they had been dancing at the Rostian. She and Christopher had gone two or three times each week to the night club.

Her days were filled with thoughts of the past date with him, and with anticipation of the next. Occasionally, she went on her mare, Madcap, to the mine because the sound of the dynamite blasts no longer frightened the animal.

Today Tami paused by the meadow fence and waited for Madcap to gallop up to the bars. Aristotele stood by with the saddle ready to put on the pretty animal.

"Ridin' over to de Cricket Hill?" Aristotele asked, tightening the cinch.

Tami drew on her green suede riding gloves she stood straight and slender in her jodhpurs, while silk shirt open low at her throat, a boy's cap with long peak shading her eyes, and trying to confine her black curls. "Yes, Aristotele. Tell Phoebe please, to go ahead and have lunch. I may be late getting back. Tell her that I'm going to ride over to Selby's from the Cricket Hill.

As she walked Madcap down the lane, Tami wondered if he would remember to tell Phoebe. She felt just a trifle conscience-stricken to ride away from the house this morning, for she had thought there was an almost imperceptible change in her mother when she took the breakfast tray to her.

As she rode along on the shoulder of the highway, keeping Madcap off the hard paving, she worried about the expression she had caught on Dr. Forrester's face the last time she had talked with him concerning her mother's condition.

But in the two weeks, Marie Randolph had even sat at the breakfast table with them a few times. Dr. Forrester had not mentioned the operation to her, and she finally asked him. Now, she realized, he had as much as told her. Was her mother's strength too frail for her to undergo a major operation. Or did the doctor think it was unnecessary. Then a thought assailed her.

Her hand leaped to her lips as though to keep the thought from speaking itself. Could it be too late?

As coldness crept over her, Tami urged Madcap forward suddenly. She passed the turning off point from the highway to the mine at a swift gallop, and headed straight on into Tahlshneka. The town was deserted as usual at 10 o'clock in the morning. Only a straggling shopper or two, glancing indifferently at the windows.

Tami tied Madcap to the ancient hitching post that stood near the new bank building. She dismounted, and the wooden steps to the doctor's office. Miss Carey looked up in astonishment as Tami burst in at the door.

"Your mother, Tami? She isn't worse?" Miss Carey asked.

"I don't think so. Is the doctor in?"

Tami heard the shuffling steps in the inner office, and the kindly old doctor put his gray beard through the door. "Looking for me, Tam?"

Comes in."

Her blue eyes bored into the doctor who had not only brought her in to the world, but also had seen her through measles and mumps, whooping cough and malaria and knew her almost as well as her parents.

"Please tell me the truth, Uncle Doc," her voice demanded. "Why aren't you going to operate on mother?" A direct question that would accept no hedging this time.

"Now, see here, Tami. In that moment Tami knew the truth. There was no need to perform an operation that would be of no benefit to her mother. It would only serve to lessen the number of her days. She spoke no word, and the doctor's voice had floundered into silence.

Tami came out of the dim recesses of the hall into the glaring whiteness of the hot sun. She must not let her mother know that she had learned about this. Life at Shadwell must go on as usual.

Tami wanted desperately to gallop back home to throw herself into her mother's arms, but that was denied her.

Instead, she turned Madcap into the side road leading up to the Cricket Hill. Before she reached the mine, however, she turned the mare once more; this time up an old wagon track which led to her favorite picnic site. The weeds had grown up on both sides of the road, and stood rank and dusty.

A hard aching lump was in her throat, and she needed to cry to relieve the painfully numb feeling that held her. She lied Madcap to a small sapling and sat down on a fallen log. It was difficult to imagine life without her mother.

When the tears came, they left Tami a crumpled heap, washing out the tight feeling in her throat, and the pain in her heart. Her face was streaked and her eyes swollen.

After a while she walked slowly up the rocky bank to the clump of small perennials trees, and taking off her clothes, dived off the steep bank into the river. The cool water laved her velvety skin, and she swam in graceful strokes down stream, drifting idly with the current.

After her swim she sat down on the log again and let the breeze dry her skin.

Tami was still buttoning her shirt when she heard a man's voice: "Fetten says that no one ever comes here. It would be the perfect place, I think."

Major Towne's voice answered: "It's something we'll have to be sure of. We can't afford to take any chances."

Tami gasped. Major Towne! Instantly she remembered her first impression of distrust for the man. Tami's heart beat quickly. In this impossible way she had stumbled onto something of great importance. If only Madcap wouldn't give her away now. She moved over to the angle of small growth around herself, crouching down out of sight.

The major was at the wheel of his big black car, and the man with him she had seen in the office at the Cricket Hill. He was one of their own workmen.

The most important thing, of course, is to work everything out carefully, timing it to accurate precision, so there can be no slip-up. If we should fail this time, it would never do to try again.

The younger man laughed, and Tami shuddered. There was something sinister in that laugh, cold and calculating. "There won't be a slip-up. Major, for I've decided not to use any of these Southern gentlemen. I've gone so far as to hire some really tough boys, you know the ones that pulled the last deal. They'll get here in a couple of weeks or so."

The Major looked about hastily. "Shut up, Nick! You don't know but what trees have ears."

"I never want to go through another job like that one. The cop—He'll shit that!" He opened the car door.

"Nothing! Sit down, Nick. You make me nervous."

"Thought I heard something over there. Guess it's my imagination." (To Be Continued)

Demand For Poultry

Has Been Notably Heavy In Canada Since War Started

Never before have the people of Canada shown such a taste for poultry meat as they have recently. Reports to the Department from dealers in dressed poultry in all parts of Canada are to the effect that the war-time demand for poultry of all kinds, particularly chickens, has been notably heavy. Due to the substantial increase in the number of poultry on farms in the past year, as a result of the large orders for Canadian eggs placed by the British Ministry of Food, more birds have been marketed and now there are large stocks of high quality poultry on hand.

An indication of the recent demand the Bureau of Statistics reports that the out-of-storage movement of dressed poultry in February of this year was 2.7 million pounds compared with 1.4 million pounds in the corresponding month of 1941.

Crop Rotation

A suitable rotation of crops is of major importance in the control of weeds. Some crops check certain species of weeds, while other crops are wholly ineffective. Wild oats, for example, are eradicated by two or three years in hay or pasture. A vigorous stand of alfalfa for two or three years eliminates Canada thistle and perennial sow thistle. Hood crops, if perfectly worked are cleaning crops. Grain, on the other hand, encourages the growth of weeds.

Do your family a good turn and turn out a batch of All-Bean Turnovers. There's nothing hard to make about the tempting new dessert with its crisp, golden crust, and sweet, taste-tempting filling of prunes. And there are vitamins and minerals in it, too, so there's no need to be conscious-stricken if desserts are off the list for the duration. The recipe goes like this:

Processed Eggs

Canadian Shipments To Britain Will Be In Powder Form

Much of western Canada's huge egg production is being processed in Canada for shipment to Great Britain in powder form. A drying plant is being operated at Winnipeg and has already processed a considerable volume of eggs from the three prairie provinces.

Flourish drying plants are now in operation in Canada and the first shipment of egg powder has been made to the United Kingdom.

According to western officials of the poultry industry, practically all future shipments of eggs from Canada to the Motherland will be in the form of powder.

Principal object of processing eggs for overseas is to conserve ocean shipping space. A case of eggs weighs about 60 pounds, officials state, while the same eggs in powder form and packed in a tin weigh only about 12 pounds.

As egg production is now double that of a year ago, officials feel confident that a steady flow of egg powder will be maintained to Britain from western provinces.

Gardening

Laysots

For flowers, lawns and shrubs about the average house, landscape gardeners strictly advise informal planting. This is especially desirable where space is limited as it tends to soften the narrow, rigid fence lines and to add an air of spaciousness even to a 20-foot lot. In an informal garden, the central portion of the ground is entirely in grass. Around the edges of the lawn are grouped beds of perennial and annual flowers, leading up to shrubs and vines along the walls or fence boundaries.

Where the garden is larger, experts advocate screening off a portion by stringing forward the surrounding shrubbery at one point, or using a hedge, wall or trees so that the whole garden will not be entirely visible from any one point of observation. This will add further to that air of spaciousness and also provide a secluded corner or two for a child's swing or sandbox or, possibly, a seat or trellis-covered table.

Vegetable Groups
Vegetables are roughly divided into three planting groups—hardy, semi-hardy and tender. Among the first are spinach, all sorts of lettuce, radish and garden peas. A little frost will not hurt these usual.

Second planted vegetables will be carrots, beans, cabbage, potatoes and similar things. These are resistant to a fair amount of cold. Tender vegetables include corn, melons, cucumbers and tomatoes. Nothing is so gained by planting these before danger of frost is over.

With most vegetables it is advisable to make at least three sowings a week or two apart in order to spread the harvest that matures longer over the season. Further spreading of the season is secured by sowing three kinds of each vegetable—an early, a medium and a late variety which will result in a continuous supply of really fresh vegetables for weeks longer than usual.

Nursery Stock
Nursery stock (shrubbery, fruit trees, vines, etc.) should be planted as soon as the soil is fit to work, and if purchased before this time, or if inconvenient to plant, roots should be temporarily covered with moist earth, or plants should be stored in a cool, dark cellar and roots kept moist.

EASY TO TURN OUT ARE ALL-BEAN TURNOVERS

1 1/2 cups All-Bean
1 1/2 cups sweetened, chopped, cooked prunes
1 1/2 cups shortening
1 1/2 cups salt
1 1/2 cups water, a little at a time, until dough is moist enough to hold together. Roll out in lightly floured board to about one-eighth inch in thickness. Cut into rounds (5 inches in diameter) with cutter. On half of round place spoonful of chopped prunes which have been only partially drained. Put a dot of butter on top. Moisten edge of dough. Fold other half over to cover prunes, crimp down edges, using a fork or pastry half over to cover prunes and place on a greased baking sheet. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) for 12 to 15 minutes. Serve hot with prune sauce.

1 cup sweetened juice from prunes 1/4 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon corn starch 3 tablespoons lemon juice
Add juice gradually to corn starch, stirring until smooth. Add salt and cook until thick and clear. Stir in lemon juice and rind and serve hot on turnovers.

Flanet Is Appreciated Today
Gay piano music certainly helps in these tense times! The girl who played so well that night—"isn't forgotten."

If you've wanted for years to learn the piano, do it now! You can quickly teach yourself.

You stand a chance of the piano key-board behind the real keyboard, and at your very first glance, you can see which piano keys correspond to which notes.

How? The paper keyboard has a staff of written notes with it—a with an arrow pointing to the A key, and so on!

In this way you quickly learn to read music and you can quickly learn a lot of popular pieces, too, a short-cut way. Play the melody with your hand, and sing chords with your left.

In learning these chords, your chart helps again. Its keys are numbered and you are shown by number which keys to play for each chord. See our diagram.

Our 24-page instruction book has life-size, numbered keyboard charts with easy step-by-step piano lessons. Explains elements of music, gives table of chords, three pieces for practice.

New War Material

Boards Made Of Glass Fibres Are Substitute For Cork

A new war material, glass boards, made of glass fibres finer than any human hair, has been announced by the Owens-Corning Fibreglass Corporation, New York.

These glass boards are intended as substitutes for cork, which comes from Spain and Portugal and is getting short. The new glass may not make good bottle corks, but it will replace cork for cold refrigerator insulation and for roof insulation.

The glass fibres are pressed by machinery into the shape of boards one to two inches thick, a foot wide and three feet long. The glass is finally coated with asphalt, to make it impervious to water.

Advantages claimed for glass boards: rats and mice can't gnaw them, bugs won't crawl in because they don't like glass, they won't rot or decay in any way because fungi can't live on glass.

It's the Weekly Newspapers in the towns and villages of Canada — the only publications whose contents are absorbed with instinctive, intimate, friendly confidence and understanding by the people who make 69% of the nation's retail purchases.

It is that which the Weekly Newspapers and their millions of earnest readers have in common—their purely local interests, their essentially personal relationships and in many respects their actual interdependence in the "home town" scheme of things—that makes the Weeklies such an influence for sales right on "Main Street" where the 69% of the country's retail sales are made.

The Weekly Newspapers bring the advertiser, the dealer and the consumer more closely, more effectively together in the smaller communities, and do it more economically, than any other sales-building medium.

The greatest raids in history were upon Canada's gas stations on Tuesday. But every car driver has had to install an extra pocket to house the necessary extra documents. It comes to this: If he changes his pants in a hurry, he's liable to be out of luck.

A local 'guy, feeling a little the worse for pay-day celebration, remarked Monday: "No, keep me away from paper! I don't want to have anything to do with it—don't want to handle it! I read in a magazine a few days ago about paper consumption!"

David Hall, an old timer, passed away suddenly at Bellevue of a heart attack on Saturday. He had been a resident of Bellevue for about thirty years, and is survived by his widow; a daughter, Mrs. W. Alexander; and a son, Albert. The remains were laid to rest at Bellevue on Tuesday afternoon.

Ronald, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Angus MacDonald, arrived in Blairmore from overseas this week, looking none the worse for his war experience. We understand he has received a post as military instructor in Canada. Ronald enlisted shortly after the outbreak of war, and has been considerable service in England.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Robbins and little granddaughter left by Monday afternoon's train for Calgary, where they will in future reside. Mr. Robbins has been Ogilvie's warehouse agent here for a number of years, and will continue in a somewhat similar capacity in the city, or else in Red Deer. Mr. and Mrs. Gagnier and family, of Trail, who purchased the Robbins' home here, moved into it on Monday. Mrs. Gagnier was formerly a Miss Diamond, of the Lundbreck district.

Even Gushul has been called up for active service.

A large audience of music lovers were treated to an excellent programme at the Columbia hall on Tuesday night. Mr. Moffatt was supervisor of the programme, while Mr. White acted as chairman.

Three cars somersaulted directly in front of our office on Monday afternoon. The reason: We had just had our office towel and windows cleaned, and the reflection blinded the drivers.

The remains of Mrs. Finley McLaren were laid to rest on Saturday afternoon following service held at the United church by Rev. E. B. Arrol, B.A. Pallbearers were Sam McDowell, Bert Saunders, Harold Pinkney, F. M. Thompson, Wilfrid Dutil and Dave Fulton. Burial took place in the union cemetery.

The city of Winnipeg's powers to tax automobiles and liquor sales will terminate this year. The city's two per cent liquor tax, under which it collected about $55,000 a year, will end on April 30th, and the annual $5 tax on automobile registrations on December 31st, revenue from which amounted to $120,000 a year.

Laddie Koran, 29, was killed by a fall of coal in the Mohawk mine on Monday night, being the third of the family to pass away in about a month. A month ago the infant child died, and two weeks later the mother passed away, following a critical operation. He is survived by his parents, three sisters and a brother.

Politicians in the East who have never been further west than Toronto, may not have vision enough to see that the Japanese menace is very dangerous, and that our interests are Western as well as Eastern. The best place to fight for your back yard is in the enemy's back yard, and the Axis powers have proved it only too well in this war.—Pincher Creek Echo.
